The Holland Purchase Historical Society & Holland Land Office Museum

Mary Richmond founded The Holland Purchase Historical Society (HPHS) in 1894 for "the discovery, procuring and preservation of whatever related to the Holland Purchase lands, and all lands that had been owned by Robert Morris in Western New York." Today it is a 501 (c)(3) educational non-profit organization that oversees the operations of the Holland Land Office Museum and its 15,000 artifacts.

The Holland Land Office Museum's (HLOM) mission is to preserve the past of Genesee County, western New York, and The Holland Land Company for present and future generations. The museum features exhibits on Joseph Ellicott and early settlement, military history, agriculture and business, local artists and other interesting topics. HLOM sponsors children's programs, well-known speakers, concerts, early morning coffee groups and trivia nights.

Your membership supports HPHS/HLOM efforts to "Make History Happen" for the residents of Genesee County and western New York.
